DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ishikawa et al. (JP 63-140753).

Ishikawa discloses the production of porous heat radiators comprising all of the applicant's claimed and disclosed limitation of the instant invention.

3. Claims 1-10 and 13-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hsu (U.S. 6,705,393).

Hsu discloses a micro-porous heat sink comprising all of the applicant's claimed and disclosed limitation of the instant invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3743

5. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ishikawa et al. (JP 63-140753) in view of Ozmat (U.S. 5,402,002).

Ishikawa's invention discloses all of the claimed limitations from above except for a liquid; a dielectric fluid is forced through the porous portion.

6. However, Ozmat teaches the use of a liquid being forced through the porous portion of a device for cooling heat generating components.

Given the teachings of Ozmat, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the porous heat radiators of Ishikawa with a liquid, a dielectric fluid is forced through the porous portion.

Doing so would provide a cooling means to facilitate the transfer of heat from the heat exchange device.

Conclusion

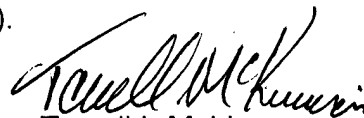

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following references cited on the USPTO 892 discloses related limitations of the applicant's claimed and disclosed invention.
